TALKED TO THE "AD" MEN

ARTHUR BRISBANE, OF THE W. R. HEARST PAPERS, AT KANSAS CITY CONVENTION.

WAS FEATURE OF THE AFTERNOON

The Speaker Traveled 1,300 Miles to Make a Talk of Twenty Minutes, but Worth Coming That Far to Hear.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 27.—At the national convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, yesterday afternoon, the speech of Arthur Brisbane, editor of Hearst's publications, was the feature of the afternoon. He had come 1,300 miles, where many duties needed his attention, to talk for thirty minutes to the advertising men and when he had finished it seemed to be the unanimous opinion, judging by the reception and the vote of thanks, that what he had said was worth coming that far to hear.

Mr. Brisbane talks much as he writes, in short, concise sentences in which the chief points to be emphasized stand out prominently like the headlines in his papers. He uses small words, clearly constructed sentences that anyone may understand; he uses no gestures, attempts no oratory, uses no words that he wouldn't put in an editorial. He spoke for twenty minutes and when he had finished the convention arose and gave him a vote of thanks with a cheer that must have pleased him.

Here follows the speech which Mr. Brisbane had prepared for the occasion and which, he declared, he could not remember. It contains much that is valuable for everyone who is interested in advertising, the writing of advertisements, and the many elements that go to make up a successful business in the commercial world.

Mr. Brisbane's Address.
The advertising man is a distributor. Upon his intelligent and convincing work depends the growth of industry, the growth of human comfort and the elevation of the standards of living. A man can buy only when he knows that the thing is for sale. A man must be intelligently instructed as to the quality of what is offered to him, and advertising does this important work.

I may be prejudiced, but I believe that the daily newspaper is the one most important engine in the hands of the intelligent advertiser. A good saying to bear in mind is this: "Repetition is reputation." Only the daily newspaper can give you the constant repetition that wears away forgetfulness and forces attention. To say a thing every day is, of course, the quickest, surest path to permanent remembrance.

I should like to say, however, and in this I am certainly not influenced by personal interests, that the intelligent advertiser should under no circumstances neglect the importance of the local paper—daily, Sunday or weekly. Every man who sells goods, every man who tries to convince his fellow man, knows how important the personal equation is. If you wanted to sell a man a coat and you could get that man's intimate friend to go to him and talk to him about the coat your sale would be assured.

The local newspaper is the local intimate friend of the people you are trying to reach in each locality. You may advertise in the few metropolitan newspapers and break ground in a big way, but you cannot get all the results, and, in my opinion, you cannot get the best results unless you bring to your aid the daily association of the local editor with his local readers.

Many a man in Kansas City reads and believes a statement vigorously and often repeated in the Kansas City Star, for instance, who would pay no attention to the same statement if he saw it in the New York Journal; it wouldn't seem to him to be a statement from home. And there are many men in the small towns around Kansas City that would pay less attention to a statement published in Col. Nelson's newspaper than to that same statement published in a local newspaper much smaller, much less important in the world's eyes, but published at their homes.

I am especially anxious to emphasize this point, because I feel very deeply the importance of supporting local newspaper enterprises, and of rewarding adequately the work done by the local editor and his staff. You can not keep this country in order, you can not regulate or keep down its finely organized rascality unless you have in every little town, and if possible in every little village, the local editor, who is the moral policeman, using publicity as his club.

If you kill the local editor by neglecting his advertising columns, you deprive the locality and the country at large of the most important feature of public defense and good government. You harm the community as you would harm the farmers if you went systematically to work starving their watchdogs to death.

The local editors are the watchdogs of the local neighborhood, and

DEAD MINERS NUMBER 29

THE LAST OF THE BODIES WAS TAKEN OUT AT AN EARLY HOUR TODAY.

WERE 19 MEN AND 5 MULES IN BUNCH

Most of the Corpses Buried Today, as They Had Undergone Rapid Decomposition Since Removed From the Mine.

McAlester, Okla., Aug. 27.—When the rescuers had completed their work at Hailey-Ola mine No. 1, at Haileyville, which was the scene of a disastrous explosion yesterday, twenty-nine dead bodies had been recovered.

The last body was taken out at an early hour this morning. It is now believed the last man has been accounted for.

When the mine was finally cleared of smoke late yesterday, nineteen dead miners were found with five mules huddled together in one of the entrances, a mile from the opening. They had started toward the fire in stead of making a detour.

Most of the bodies of the dead miners were interred today, a necessity, as they have undergone rapid decomposition since being taken out of the mine.

Haileyville is filled with thousands of people, most of whom came from miles around.

WILL SPEAK AT TOPEKA

Mr. Bryan Left Kansas City for Capital of Kansas Today.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 27.—W. J. Bryan and party arrived this morning from St. Louis and left for Topeka at 10:30, where he will speak on "Guaranteed Banks" tonight. He said:

"The action of the Kansas republican convention is a rebuke to the republican candidate who has been assailing the guaranty of depositors. The convention's action makes it impossible for the republicans of that state to oppose our plan."

Mr. Bryan made an impromptu speech before the convention of Associated Advertising Clubs of America while here this morning.

BANK OFFICERS INDICTED

Grand Jury at Owensboro, Ky., Returns True Bills.

Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 27.—The grand jury today returned indictments as follows against officers of the banking houses that closed some time ago:

James H. Parrish, president of the Owensboro Savings Bank and Trust company; I. Otis Parrish, cashier; and Isaac N. Parrish, trust officer of the Davies County Bank and Trust company, and T. S. Anderson, also with the latter concern.

THROWN FROM HIS VEHICLE

J. D. Lyons Met With a Slight Accident Last Night.

J. D. Lyons, relief butcher for the Van Noy News company out of this city, was thrown from his vehicle and slightly injured at Twenty-first and Kentucky avenue at 9 o'clock last night when his buggy ran into a ditch in that locality.

There were no lights to signal danger, and the driver was thrown to the pavement, the wheels of the buggy passing over his body.

MR. BRYAN MET MR. BALL

THE GENTLEMEN HAD A CONFERENCE IN ST. LOUIS LAST NIGHT.

NOTHING GIVEN OUT TO THE PRESS

Nebraskan Also Met Mr. Cowherd in Kansas City This Morning—Mr. Bryan Was on His Way to Topeka, Kas.

St. Louis, Aug. 27.—By special appointment David A. Ball met William Jennings Bryan upon Bryan's arrival here at 6:40 o'clock last night, and the presidential nominee had a similar engagement with William S. Cowherd upon his arrival in Kansas City this morning. Mr. Bryan and his party departed at 11:30 o'clock last night for Kansas City.

Just what prompted the interview between Mr. Bryan and Mr. Ball neither would say, but it is believed that the object was to have Mr. Ball come out strongly for the democratic state and national tickets and abandon his ill will over his defeat.

"I asked Mr. Ball to meet me in St. Louis," said Mr. Bryan, "and he did so. I expect to meet Mr. Cowherd in the morning. I am not in the habit of repeating conversations."

The Nebraskan dropped this remark indicating that he had some kind of an understanding with Ball: "I did not ask Mr. Ball if he would stump the state, but I never had any doubt of his support of the state and national tickets. I would take it for granted."

Mr. Bryan was asked if he and Mr. Ball had discussed the alleged frauds in the large cities in the recent primary election, but he said he did not care to discuss that question or any subject which he had not investigated. The Bryan-Hadley club, which is being agitated by Nicholas P. L. Rosch, recently candidate for circuit attorney and one of the foremost in the Ball-for-governor campaign, was tabooed by Mr. Bryan.

"I would be most unwilling that any such clubs should be formed," said the Nebraskan.

Want Earlier Closing Hour.

A petition is being circulated about the city with a view of securing the assent to business men to close their respective business houses at 6 o'clock each evening, except on pay days and Saturday, instead of 6:30 p. m., as at present.

Will Have Exhibit at the Fair.

T. F. McAuley, St. Louis representative of the Lanston Monotype Machine Co., 1231 Callowhill street,

Philadelphia, is in the city today making the preliminary arrangements for an exhibit at the state fair by his company. Mr. McAuley installed the monotype in the office of the Sedalia Journal, and is the guest of the Messrs. Boiz while here. He will return to St. Louis tonight.

Off on a Picnic Trip.

Several wagon loads of picnickers, en route to the Knights and Ladies of Security picnic at Thatcher's ford on Flat creek, left the court house this afternoon. There will be music, dancing, speaking and a basket lunch.

Dance at Country Club.

There will be a dance at the Country club this evening at the usual hour. Members and their out-of-town guests are invited.

FINDS WIFE WITH ACTOR

NOW MILWAUKEE MAN BRINGS A SUIT AGAINST MR. EDWARD MACKAY.

LEADING MAN IN STOCK COMPANY

"What Are You Doing Here?" Asked the Husband, to Which Wife Replied, Without Hesitation, "What Do You Suppose?"

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 27.—Found in a room with Edward Mackay, leading man of the Davidson Theater Stock company, Mrs. Walter T. Saveland, wife of a department manager of the Allis-Chalmers company, amazed her husband by her reply to his question:

"What are you doing here?" "What do you suppose?" was the answer.

As a result suit was filed yesterday for $10,000 damages against Mackay by the injured husband, and a criminal warrant will be issued to bring him back from Brooklyn, where he fled immediately after the discovery.

Saveland had no suspicion of his wife until two weeks ago a local detective agency warned him. August 20 a detective followed the pair to a hotel.

A bellboy, under pretense of handing Mackay a note, opened the door and Mrs. Saveland was discovered standing in a corner. Then came her surprising answer to her husband's angry question.

Every effort was made to keep the affair secret until the papers could be served.

Mackay received warning, however, and fled. Mrs. Saveland has disappeared also.

NUDE FIGURES ON CHINA

ARE COVERED BY ENTRY CARDS AT IOWA STATE FAIR AT DES MOINES.

THIS DISPLEASES WOMAN ARTIST

Straining at a Gnat and Swallowing a Camel, as Nude Savages Are Permitted to Roam Over the Fair Grounds.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 27.—The nude in art must not be displayed at the Iowa state fair, and especially when the nude figures are painted dauntily on china.

This is the dictum of T. D. Legoe, of What Cheer, Ia., superintendent of the Fine Arts building at the state fair.

Miss Elizabeth Sheets, a Des Moines china painter, is the offending art china exhibitor.

Because of the lack of the historical fig leaf and drapery illusions on Miss Sheets' women figures on coffee urns, brush and comb trays, powder boxes and the what-nots of a woman's dresser, Mr. Legoe has had entry tickets awkwardly balanced over the most offending and flagrant nudity of the female figures. This is what caused the war. Miss Sheets contended that the beauty of the outline should not be marred by any cardboard makeshift.

"If they think this art is vulgar and should not be shown to young people, why do they let those savages run naked at the fair grounds side shows, where thousands of boys and girls see them?" asked Miss Sheets. "They do not know anything about art. The nude figure of either sex is not offensive, but the highest expression of divine art."

"I think it is a shame to have such beautiful work covered," said Mrs. Wharton, one of the china judges.

"It is beautiful work and exhibited for the first time at the fair. There is nothing suggestive or offensive in real art."

LOVE FOR SUITOR SO STRONG

That Girl Ended Life in Ohio River After Quarrel.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 27.—The body of Miss Lula Utterback, a pretty stenographer, aged 19, was found floating in the Ohio river here yesterday and was recovered by a fisherman. A note was found pinned to the silk waist the girl wore, and it read as follows:

"Ernest, Darling:
"Forgive and forget: I left you without saying farewell, but I could not. You can guess where I went, but do not say anything to anyone. I loved you while living and you will be my only thought in death. Good-bye, darling, and may God bless you."

—Lula."

It is understood Miss Utterback kept company with Ernest Goch, of Howell, Ind., two miles below here. The two separated after a quarrel. Miss Utterback comes from a prominent family and was strikingly beautiful.

Gave Bond for His Appearance.
Frank Wells, charged with having disturbed the peace of his sister, Mrs. J. T. Wilcox, gave bond in Justice Rickman's court today for his appearance Saturday, the 29th. The warrant was issued at the instigation of Mr. Wilcox.

GREAT BUSINESS TRICK

FOURTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY TURNED IT AT MEMPHIS AND GOT $7,500.

SMOOTH ARTIST FOR A MERE "KID"

Rival of Frenzied Financiers. Fled From the Scene of His Crookedness and Was Arrested in New York City.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 27.—David Steinberg, a 14-year-old boy, is under arrest at Bath Beach, N. Y., charged with one of the neatest swindles ever worked in this part of the country.

Steinberg, in April, 1907, is alleged to have run away from his New York home and coming to Memphis, where he obtained a position as stenographer for S. Steinberg & Co., dealers in hides and furs.

It is alleged he rented an office in a downtown building and started operations, while still employed by S. Steinberg & Co., as the Memphis Hide & Fur Co.

Elaborately printed stationery was used, and under the name of E. Carey the boy is said to have posed as president. His method was to write to business houses and offer them furs at 2 cents or so less than market price, calling for the right to make an immediate draft for part payment, the remainder to be paid upon delivery.

In this way the Chicago Tanning Co. alleges it was defrauded of $7,500 before they could start prosecution. S. Steinberg, head of the company by which the boy was employed, learned of the office downtown, of the stationery, etc., and discharged the lad.

Thinking the boy had obtained no money he made no effort to turn him over to the authorities. The boy disappeared and was found only yesterday at Bath Beach.

WILL SUE FOR $25,000

Dr. J. W. McClure Is After the Western Union Telegraph Co.

Judge George F. Longan has been retained by Dr. J. W. McClure to bring suit against the Western Union Telegraph Co. for $25,000 damages for having transmitted over their wires to plaintiff a telegram that it was alleged was calculated to humiliate and ridicule the recipient, while he was visiting recently at Lincoln, Neb.

The petition will be filed either tonight or tomorrow.

COL. W. F. VILAS IS DEAD

He Held Two Cabinet Positions Under President Cleveland.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 27.—Col. William F. Vilas died at his home here this morning. He suffered a stroke of paralysis a month ago.

He was postmaster general and secretary of the interior in President Cleveland's cabinet at different times.

The "Story Hour" Tomorrow.

At the "story hour" at the public library at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning the librarian, Miss Florence Whitfield, will entertain the children with stories of California. Every child in the city is invited to be present.

President Roosevelt! Home Again.
Oyster Bay, Aug. 27.—President Roosevelt and party reached home on the Sylph at noon today.

GOW HEARING IS SECRET

VERDICT WILL BE ANNOUNCED TO THE CONFERENCE AT HANNIBAL.

ALLEGED HE MISTREATED WOMAN

Latter Died as the Result of a Criminal Operation—Accused Was Present, but Took No Part in Conference.

Hannibal, Mo., Aug. 27.—At the Hope Street Methodist church the trial of Clyde C. Gow, according to the regulations of the Methodist church, is being conducted before a board of ministers named by Bishop Morrison, after the conference had heard the report of the committee appointed several months ago to investigate the case of Mr. Gow.

This board is hearing the evidence and arguments in the case behind closed doors, and the result of the trial will be announced to the conference.

Upon the verdict of this board depends the future of Mr. Gow in the ministry.

Rev. Gow was at the Arch Street church yesterday and was greeted by his friends, but did not take part in the work of the conference.

The Rev. Gow stands accused of causing the downfall of Miss Elizabeth Gleason, a school teacher and member of his flock, who died a few months ago as the result of a criminal operation.

"Miss Gleason taught a school near my home in Eolia, and lived with my family," testified Mr. B. F. Green. "Mr. Gow, in addition to having a pastorate at Elsberry, came out to a church in our community and held services twice a month. He ver often made his headquarters at a house, and consequently was thrown much in the company of Miss Gleason. They spent a great deal of time together and seemed thoroughly congenial."

An affidavit from Mrs. Gleason, the mother of the dead girl, was read. Mrs. Gleason repeated the statement she has made frequently before, that her daughter, while fatally ill, told her that Mr. Gow and Dr. Herphill were responsible for the fact that she was near death.

The mother told how the daughter had called her in when she realized that she could not live much longer. Between the sessions, Mr. Gow was asked if he cared to make a statement.

"Nothing at all," he said. "Nothing except that I am an innocent man."

END OF HOT WEATHER IS HERE

An Early Fall and Severe Winter Are Predicted.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 27.—Summer, that is, the hot weather which is usually termed summer, has practically left Kansas City, and, according to the weather bureau, there will be no more really hot days.

While the weather that is in store for the next few weeks can not be termed fall weather, the nights will be cool and the days not unusually warm.

An early fall is predicted and a severe winter would not surprise those who make a study of conditions.

WORK FOR 1,600 MORE MEN

Rolling Mills at Granite City, Ill., to Resume With Full Force.

Granite City, Ill., Aug. 27.—Announcement is made that the rolling mills of the National Enameling and Stamping Co., which have been closed since June 30, will be reopened next Monday, in the usual order of departments and within two weeks the complement of 1,600 men will be employed.

A Suit for $5,000 Damages.

Henry E. Bake, of near Benman, has retained Judge George F. Longan to bring suit for $5,000 damages against C. A. and Caroline Leftwich for inducing their daughter, Mrs. Lu Lu M. Bake, wife of the plaintiff, to refuse to live with him. The suit will be filed this evening. Mrs. Bake instituted suit for divorce from her husband recently and the case is now pending in court.

NOTICE TO MAIL SUBSCRIBERS.

Subscribers to the Daily Democrat-Sentinel who receive their paper by mail should remember that a recent ruling of the post-office department makes it obligatory on the part of the paper to discontinue sending copies to those who are three months in arrears on their subscription.

This ruling is being followed strictly by the Democrat-Sentinel and those of its subscribers who fail to get the paper will understand why it does not come.

They should not blame the management, because it has no option in the matter, but should at once take steps to pay what is past due, together with at least three months in advance, and get the paper started again.

FOOLS OR FIENDS.

The Kansas City young men who tied David Marshall in a chair, poured alcohol on his clothing and set it afire were unique jokers. The frantic screams and struggles of the victim, the blue flames crawling over him and the odor of burning flesh were hilariously funny.

Marshall is dead, says the Nevada Post, and his murderers are under arrest. Their defense will be that the act was only a joke. A description of the dying man's agony will not amuse the jury. There are people who can see no humor in the infliction of pain, even though it is done in the effort to shake a friend and gladden life.

The disposition to laugh even at the wild embarrassment of others is not a long journey from the weasel and the butcher bird, which kill for the love of killing.

With the spirit that prompts most practical jokes left out of human nature, it would be possible to materially diminish the acreage of hell.

The man who hurts and calls it fun is either a fool or a fiend.

HEARST VS. BRYAN.

The animus behind Mr. Hearst's "independence party," says the Chicago Journal, is so plain that nobody can help seeing it.

Four years ago Mr. Hearst thought he was a candidate for the democratic nomination for president. He spent hundreds of thousands of dollars trying to get delegates, and obtained a few, but democrats generally regarded him with so much dislike that when the convention met he cut a ridiculous figure.

His ambition flouted, himself dejected, made to feel unmistakably that democrats would not take him into their councils, Mr. Hearst subsided, but not calmly, for rage was in his heart and a desire for revenge.

He saw, after Parker's defeat, that Bryan would inevitably be the candidate in 1908. Bryan was the logical leader of the democratic party, and when the party refused to have anything to do with Hearst, Hearst held Bryan responsible. He determined then to wreak his vengeance on Mr. Bryan this year.

By means of a vast expenditure of money he built up an organization in various states, and last month had this pseudo-party nominate a candidate for president at an imitation convention held in Chicago.

Though he talks about freedom in politics and freeing the country from boss rule, he hopes only to take enough votes from Bryan to make sure Taft's election. Bryan is the enemy for whom he is lying in wait, knife in hand. His body is full of bitterness and hatred and he longs to relieve himself by taking Bryan's scalp.

That this is true is evident from his newspapers, which have apparently forgotten all their old animosity against republican leaders, and are busily engaged in berating Bryan and the men who are managing the Bryan campaign. Hearst has nothing but harsh words for Bryan, whose honesty and sincerity he says he doubts, and who, if elected, would be, Hearst charges, a hopeless tool of the trusts.

But Hearst's denunciation will not harm Bryan any more than it harmed William McKinley.

NIGHT RIDERS' FINISH.

The night riders of Kentucky, encouraged by long immunity from punishment for their lawless deeds, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, have now gone too far. Ruthless and defiant of woman as well as man, they recently swooped down upon the village of Custon and burned the millinery store of Miss Jennie Meyer because they disapproved of the merry widow hats which she was offering for sale.

There is where the night riders will begin to see their finish. The man has not yet lived who can put the torch to the newest thing in feminine headgear and go unwhipped of his sins.

Whether he calls himself a night rider or merely a disgruntled husband or father, he must pay the penalty for such vandalism. The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world, and every such hand in Kentucky will be raised against these reckless incendiaries of merry widow hats.

There isn't a home in all the dark and bloody ground whose mistress would consent to abide the night riders from justice—she'll turn thumbs down every time she thinks of those hats consigned to the flames.

The night riders have themselves to thank for their impending doom. It will be useless for them to appeal from the inevitable. Justice herself is pictured as a woman, and from now on she camps on the trail of the night riders with blood in her eye.

SPRING FORK ITEMS.

Spring Fork, Mo., Aug. 25. Messrs. Breeden and Ralfeisen, of near Sedalia, were in this vicinity on business last Friday.

Messrs. John Brummett and A. A. Silvey, of Hughesville, spent last Thursday night at the G. H. Rider home.

Miss Ona Ray spent the greater part of last week with her sister, Mrs. R. Francis, returning home Monday.

Confusing reports of the union Sunday school picnic at Leischel's ford caused many to go on the 20th and others on the 21st. However, the picnic was held on the 20th.

A great many from this section attended the picnic at the Smith grove Saturday, and a good time was reported.

RIOT LEADER A SUICIDE

MRS. KATE HOWARD, RE-ARRESTED FOR MURDER, TAKES STRYCHNINE.

SHE DROPS DEAD AT JAIL DOOR

Indicted Last Week for Inciting Riot, a More Serious Charge Was Later Returned—Other Indictments.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 27.—Mrs. Kate Howard, 42 years old, proprietor of a rooming house at 115 South Sixth street, who was indicted several days ago, charged with riot, was yesterday indicted on a charge of murder in connection with the lynching of Scott Euton during the mob riots Friday night, August 14 committed suicide last evening, dying at the jail door as she was being led into the prison by Deputy Sheriff Hank Kramer, who had arrested her on the murder indictment.

Mrs. Howard was one of the most remarkable and picturesque characters in the recent riots. Before the special grand jury many witnesses testified that she was one of the leaders of the mob which wrecked Loper's restaurant. She made little pretense at concealing the fact that she was prominent in the riot at Loper's, declaring to newspaper reporters that she had had a personal experience which had made her hate the negro.

When the officer went to arrest Mrs. Howard she received him at the door.

"Please wait a moment until I change my clothes," said the woman to the officer, and turning, entered her apartments.

Having attired herself in her best gown, she secretly swallowed a large dose of strychnine, then stepped to the door and said to the officer, "I'm ready to go now."

She accompanied the deputy to the jail two blocks distant, and was just entering the jail when she fell. Thinking she had merely fainted, she was carried into the jail annex. She was dead before a physician could be summoned.

Ten more indictments were returned by the special grand jury late last afternoon.

Pineules for the kidneys, 30 days' trial $1.00, guaranteed. Pineules act directly on the kidneys and bring relief in the first dose to backache, weak back, lame back, rheumatic pains, kidney and bladder trouble, the entire system. Sold by W. E. Bard Drug Co.

BALLSTON FAIR RACES HELD UP WHILE THE GOVERNOR IS PRESENT.

ALL THREATS WERE UNAVAILING

When Executive Leaves the Grounds Owners Bring Out Horses—The Snub Was Result of Anti-Betting Legislation.

Ballston, N. Y., Aug. 27.—For an hour and a half last afternoon the openly expressed hostility of owners of trotting horses taking part in the events at the Saratoga county fair toward Gov. Charles E. Hughes held up the racing program at the fair grounds here.

Gov. Hughes was a visitor at the fair yesterday, and addressed a big gathering, which gave him a hearty greeting. The governor's presence on the grounds, however, was resented by the horse owners, who have taken exceptions to the governor's efforts to suppress betting on the race tracks. As a consequence they refused to start their horses while the executive was on the ground.

The "strike" of the horse owners created an unprecedented situation and caused the management of the fair marked embarrassment.

When the conditions came to be known a sensation was created among the thousands of spectators on the grounds, and considerable pressure was put on the trotting men to change their attitude and run off the races as scheduled.

In this the fair officials took the lead, urging the case strongly upon the recalcitrant owners and pointing out the awkwardness of the situation caused by the balk in the program.

Their efforts were fruitless, however, the owners remaining obdurate and for an hour and a half refusing to budge from their position.

They openly declared that Governor Hughes had antagonized their interests and that they proposed to retaliate by refusing to take their horses out on the track while he was present.

Those in charge of the fair threatened to have the owners disqualified for their refusal to come to time when the races were called, but even this threat had no effect in altering their attitude.

A REAL FISH FRY

Enjoyed by the People of the Stony Point Neighborhood.

Seventy-five neighbors and friends of the Stony Point neighborhood, three miles southeast of Smithton, met at the State ford, on Flat creek, near Judge Hy Wagenknecht's home, Friday, August 21, and enjoyed an old-fashioned fish fry.

The young men of Stony Point—and they have a reputation of being real fishermen—had gone to the creek early Friday morning, promising to secure a bountiful supply of fish for the picnic party. That they were successful was evidenced later, when 125 pounds of buffalo, drum, carp and catfish—some fine specimens in the catch—were brought to camp ready for the fry.

In addition to an iron cook stove, a camp fire 15 feet in length was used to cook the fish for the large company, and at 1:30 o'clock a sumptuous dinner was served to the jolly crowd.

Fish was the principal article on the menu card, but everything else pleasing to the palate from the farmers' field and garden and cooked as only these good country folks can cook was served.

The day was spent in merrymaking, frolics and general converse, and it was a late hour when the company dispersed.

Those present were: Mr. M. F. Homan and family, Mr. Walter Homan and family, Mr. Ira DeHaven and wife, Mr. George DeHaven and wife, Mr. J. W. Smith and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith and son, Kenneth, Mrs. Sae Page, Mr. and Mrs. John Page, Mr. Frank Page and family, Mr. Will Homan and family, Mrs. Judge Wagenknecht and daughter, Miss Zetta, Mrs. Arni, of Ottaville; Mr. Reid, of Ottaville; Mr. Frank Homan and family, Mr. Jimmie Ross, Charles Gunder and family, Mr. Chas. ## ROASTS SMART SOCIETY

NEW NOVEL BY COUNT LEO TOLSTOI, TO BE PUBLISHED AFTER HIS DEATH.

IT IS "A TERRIBLE ARRAIGNMENT"

In Fact, the Worst That Has Ever Been Written—It Deals With the Frailties of Many Fashionable Women.

London, Aug. 27.—Russian refugees and thousands of political radicals and literary men will tomorrow celebrate the 80th birthday of Count Leo Tolstoi with a great meeting which will probably be the most enthusiastic tribute ever paid in London to a literary man. Preparations for the great occasion have been going forward for months and tomorrow's culmination will be a veritable public upheaval of love and admiration for the great Russian novelist. Hundreds of messages of congratulation, signed by the most famous names in English literature and politics, will be sent from London to the venerable man who rules intellectual Russia by the power of his pen and who looms above the czar as a giant above a pygmy.

In connection with the Tolstoi birthday celebration it is stated that a new novel has been completed by the great Russian and will make its appearance immediately after his death. The manuscript of the book has been read by an English friend of Tolstoi, who states that perhaps it is the most terrible arraignment of smart society ever written. Dealing with the frailties and follies of fashionable women and the primal singe and passions of men, it is declared to be even more powerful than "Anna Karenina" and "The Kreutzer Sonata."

"Father Sergius" is the title of the new novel, which will only see the light of day after the eyes of the author have been closed forever. It is the story of a wealthy guardsman, prominent in St. Petersburg society, who becomes engaged to a typical society girl of the Russian capital. For a time the course of true love runs smoothly and the guardsman is serenely happy in the thought of a happy future. Shortly before the marriage, however, the young man discovers that the maiden, while pre-tending extreme innocence and declaring that she loves only her betrothed, has been carrying on a clandestine "affair" with a Russian court personage, and that her innocence is only an affectation covering depths of depravity. The rage of the young man at this tragic end of his dreams of wedded bliss affords opportunity for fierce Tolstolian castigation of society women, and the intimation that the girl is but a type common among the feminine devotees of the smart society everywhere.

Utterly disgusted with the world and it ways, the officer throws up his commission in the army, enters a monastery, takes the cowl, and assumes the name of Sergius.

Here the bruised heart of the novice, reposed in cloistral peace, and his soul filled with the noble thoughts and spiritual influxes, which language is powerless to express and music only faintly suggests, gradually recovers sympathy with all creatures. Communing thus with the soul of the universe the zealous monk thirsts for higher spiritual perfection and finally, quitting the monastic family, retires to a lonely hermitage and sylvan meditation.

Here he vies with the ancient Indian anchorites in feasts of self-mortification, followed by moods of ecstatic rapture, swelling of spirits and consciousness of the god-like power within him. The fame of his holy life is bruited abroad, and peasants begin to speak of him in awe as a wonder working saint. Nowhere in the book is Tolstoi's artistic power so marvelously displayed as in these conversations among the peasants.

The second part of the novel opens with the description of a picnic arranged by youthful city pleasure hunters, who, with the ladies of their hearts, are whirled along in three-in-hands to the accompaniment of the horses' silvery bells, past the golden-domed monastery, past the sylvan recess in which the holy hermit is ever doing penance. They discuss his romantic story, his fierce love of self-inflicted suffering, his invulnerability to the shafts of temptation.

One blithe and pretty lady is scornfully skeptical as to the monk's invulnerability, and declares that she could easily entice him from his pedestal of sanctity and have him at her feet if she wished.

Her male companion, a lawyer, challenges her to make good her boast, offering a heavy wager that she will fail.

The lady then descends alone from the three-in-hand, wanders along the fringe of the forest, and, profiting by a fall of fine rain, knocks at the door

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble," by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipation or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, or "rises" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more thoroughly than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

of the hermit's hut, entreating the inmate to give her temporary refuge.

The ensuing scenes of temptation are most artistic and powerful; for example, that in which, under the pretext of wet garments, the lady proceeds to change them, while Sergius, with throbbing heart and swimming head, feels the awakening of a passion that was not dead, but sleeping, and maddened by the fear lest it should, like an evil spirit, possess and sway him, he seizes a hatchet and chops off a finger.

The fair temptress, horror-stricken, flees from the austere hermitage, shedding tears of shame as she departs.

Meanwhile, the fame of the holy man spreads over a wider area. Even the inhabitants of distant cities hear of the pious anchorite, who is endowed with holy powers and miraculous faculties. The sick and suffering are sent to him for physical healing and spiritual comfort.

Among others, a merchant takes his weak-minded daughter that the saintly man may intercede for her with God. The young, well-formed, attractive maiden is then left in the cell of the anchorite, who has undertaken to offer prayer for her day and night, but on the very first evening the presence of the girl awakens primal passions within him. Sinful thoughts flit through his brain like an army of evil spirits. A terrible struggle ensues between the spirit and the flesh, culminating in the absolute victory of the latter.

Day dawns upon the fallen saint, upon the brutal crime. His storm of sudden passion subsiding, the monk catches a fitful glimpse of the horror of the situation, and a second soul tempest follows the first, sweeping away the entire structure of spiritual perfection so laboriously built up during many years. A sentiment of deliberate blind hatred springs up within him toward the girl there, who unwittingly caused his fall.

In a mad outburst of rage, Sergius clutches a hatchet, the same hatchet with which he had formerly chopped off a finger and conquered temptation. Now he swings it aloft and cleaves the skull of the wronged maiden. Having gazed long at the gory corpse, Sergius quits the cell.

In the last scenes we behold the long-bearded monk, with his hair floating in the wind, holding a pilgrim's staff in his hand and walking eastward aimlessly.

BRASS BANDS WILL PLAY

A PROMINENT PART WITH THE HEARST LEAGUE IN HOOSIER STATE.

CHARLES G. CONN FOR GOVERNOR

He is a Maker of Wind Instruments and is Said to Be a Millionaire—At One Time Owned Washington Times.

Indianapolis, Ind. Aug. 27.—Brass bands will play a prominent part in the campaign of the Hoosier branch of the Hearst Independence party, if the plans of the party leaders are carried out.

Charles G. Conn, of Elkhart, the millionaire manufacturer of musical instruments, is being urged to accept the nomination for governor and according to delegates who are here today in advance of the state convention, he will probably accept.

Mr. Conn is known all over the country as a maker of wind instruments and his fame in this direction should insure him the brass band vote. He has made many millions in his business. Until recently he was a democrat and served several times in congress.

At one time he was the owner of the Washington Times, now the property of Frank Munsey, which he conducted for the alleged purpose of giving his congressional acts proper publicity.

He is a clever advertiser, and if nominated for governor by the Independence party, will make a spectacular race.

LIGHTNING ON BRYAN'S FARM

"I've Been Waiting for It to Strike Me," He Said, When Told of It.

St. Louis, Aug. 27.—Mr. Bryan was informed last night that dispatches had been received from Lincoln to the effect that the windmill on his farm had been struck by lightning.

"Did it do any damage?" inquired Mr. Bryan.

"Only very slight damage," he was assured.

"Well, I have been waiting a good many years for lightning to strike me," he observed, with a broad smile.

THE SUMMER WARDROBE

CANNOT BE COMPLETE UNLESS IT CONTAINS NECESSARY SATIN SLIP.

IT IS MADE IN "PRINCESS SHAPE"

And Fits the Figure Perfectly—Snug Around the Hips and at the Same Time Is Full at the Pedal Extremities.

New York, Aug. 27.—The satin slip is one of the most necessary articles of the summer wardrobe. It is made in princess shape and fits the figure perfectly. Not only is it tight-fitting but it is full in the bust and so admirably planned that it is snug about the hips and full around the feet. It is a handsome skin-tight garment perfectly plain from the neck to the feet, where its only trimming is a group of ruffles which are set just above the hem. To make the skirt set out in correct fashion, there should be six to eight tiny ruffles, each ruffle edged with valenciennes lace.

Almost all of the cotton and lingerie frocks are of the one-piece variety, that is, the blouse and skirt, though cut separately, are joined at the waist line by some sort of waist-band or girdle as inconspicuous as possible. Under such frocks a firm smoothly fitting slip of silk or satin is really indispensable.

There is a change to be noted in waist and skirt linings. Materials are for the most part of soft supple texture and for this reason demand a lining having these qualities also. Again the tendency is towards modes that cling to the figure, that fall softly about the wearer; therefore the stiff taffetas that once were deemed so necessary to a gown are replaced with satins, soft china silks, lousines or peau de soies. Of these the china silks are the most admirable thing as yet offered, though there is an effort being made to manufacture taffetas with that softness and clinging quality needed for the gowns at present, but so far none can come up to the china silks.

For cotton or wool textures with a not too open mesh, the fine batiste or lawn are often used and may be in white or faint color. Some of the mercerized goods are delightfully suggestive of silk and for an inexpensive gown will serve the purpose quite as well as silk. Of these the lightest and most supple quality should be chosen.

Many of the new waists, even those of the most dressy type are made over but separate from a lining of silky finished batiste, fitting the figure perfectly and boned. The casings are run on the inside of the waist for the bones and may be removed when the waist is washed. The yoke and sleeves are attached to this under waist and the bodice proper is tucked to it along the shoulders and underarm seams.

An overlay of chiffon is often used upon the silk waist lining to add strength to the outer material and to deaden both the rustle and the lustre. In the case of a lace dress, for both skirt and waist there is needed an inter-lining of chiffon. All yokes and sleeves of very sheer materials need a foundation of chiffon laid on the lining.

The linen gown may be called the "economy gown." Three colors seem to be favorites—rose pink, tan and Copenhagen blue. These linen gowns are not to be all suits by any means, unless made on the three-piece order with a jumper to match jacket and skirt.

Many are the modes of decoration, there may be a combination of embroidery, and lace or net, elaborated by hand embroidery or combined with all-over embroidery in which there is a bit of color.

The hand embroidered parasol is worn with the linen suit intended for the street. Hats should be smartly but not over trimmed. A new fabric glove called cotton suede-lisse is very nobby with a linen suit.

A linen crash that resembles woolen homespun makes up very satisfactorily into street suits. One model had its front panel outlined with pearl buttons, and the skirt was finished above the hem with three tucks. A yoke of baby Irish lace and the new sectional sleeves made the bodice smart. The belt was decorated with green embroidery and the hat had green trimmings. The shoes harmonized with the color of the suit.

A jumper suit was developed from a blue linen having a fine rib in it. The jumper and skirt band above the hem were embroidered in white braid. The guimpe and undersleeves were of heavy valenciennes lace. White shoes and stockings, and gloves were used, and a white smooth straw hat was trimmed with a cluster of blue plumes.

The revival of the Greek modes have brought in a new style of hair dressing, the Psyche knot, which in its latest form is soft and loose, large and low. The hair should be parted in front, made full and wavy about the sides and back and the knot, which really stands out a good piece from the head, should be sunk into these soft masses of hair. All hand lines and pulling back of the hair should be avoided or the knot may take on the appearance of the door knob style of hairdressing known once. A glance at some prints of Green feminine figures will give one an idea of the effect to be gained.

Pompadors are quite low and less worn, the idea being to shorten the line from the top of the head to the throat, to lengthen the line from the nose to chignon at the back as well as that from the crown to the chin.

Just a year ago the waistcoat had become the rage and many there were who considered it but a short-lived one, at that, for they were to be seen everywhere, on everyone, and in most bizarre effects. But the coat style of the past two seasons and those promised for the coming one are of such a type that the vest and waistcoat are still in demand. Moreover, on no part of the coat is there a place so well fitted for elaboration, hand work and the touch of individuality as on the waistcoat and vest. The materials are many that are used for these little affairs. Brocades such as one sees only in the most handsome upholstery effects are used, and when embroidered are very beautiful indeed; tapestry is also used to good advantage on the rougher and heavier weight fabrics. For certain types of costumes the vests of pique and linen are best liked, many of the stamped linens are done over in some color or in white, but there is a penchant just now for the white dress accessories. Perhaps of all the smart effects the French cretonnes are the smartest for these little garments. There are cretonnes made especially for this purpose now and in very beautiful and varied designs. Some of these waistcoats are made as a separate garment like those men wear and can be worn with many coats if one so pleases, or they may be made like a vest and simply tacked to the armhole in front and the underarm seam.

One of the new hat shapes is the Charlotte Corday. Now the clever girl may either make or buy these hats just ready for finishing. In the first case, the cost is about thirty cents and most any girl will have a bit of muslin to cover it with, a bit of fine all over embroidery or dotted Swiss or some yards of valenciennes lace with which she can decorate it—she may get her ideas in general from those shown in the shop windows, but her own creation will be more individual. But if limited in time these hats are not expensive, costing about $3.50. The Charlotte Corday has completely taken the place of the lingerie hat so popular during the past two summers. Of course, it is most appropriate with a white gown but it is smarter than the old lingerie hat and quite suitable to go with the Empire gown in white or a princess frock of white muslin.

Many bargains may now be secured in hats that will last one until ready to buy for the winter season, and as black is so popular in hats, especially the all black hat which is offered at reasonably low prices at the end of the season, it will go far into the fall without any change.

"The Girl Question."

A musical comedy full of incessant action brimming over with fun and laughter, pretty girls, catchy music, comes to the Sedalia theater Saturday night.

Its title is "The Girl Question" and it comes here with the recommendation of having run 329 times in Chicago and with the further endorsement of the fact that it is by the authors of "The Time, the Place and the Girl."

There is a delightful love story running through the play and its plot is logical and of sufficient interest to hold the attention of the audience even though the songs, dances and pretty girls were eliminated. The hero of the play is a rough, uncouth, but big-hearted fellow full of witty slang—a part, in short, ideal with the personality of Paul Nicholson, the actor who plays it. Henrietta Tedoro has a role along similar lines, that of a waitress in a big restaurant. Margaret DeVon, a delightful little sourette, sings several songs and is carrying on a charming little romance at the same time that Miss Tedoro and Mr. Nicholson are developing their own love affairs. The cast also includes Nina Collins, Thomas DeVassey, Russell Lennon and Lewis Wood. Some of the songs are "Goodbye, Pal," "I Hate to Work on Monday," "Oh, Gee, Be Good to Me, Kid," "Waltz Me Around Till I'm Dreamy," "When Eyes Like Yours Look Into Eyes Like Mine," "The Old Buck and Wing" and "Do Something."

TALKED TO THE "AD" MEN

In addition to that, they are the real offenders of the public; they do a work that a handful of metropolitan papers can not pretend to do.

Fortunately they give you a good return, the best return for your advertising investment, when you advertise with them wisely and they will grow in power and prosperity with the growth of intelligent advertising.

I would say to the writer of advertisements as I would say to a reporter or young editorial writer, that the most important thing of all is simplicity of language, distinct utterance of each thought. Perfectly distinct separation of each thought from each other thought to avoid confusion, and above all things, cultivate a style easily read. Every man can write simply, readably, if he will.

Certain formulas, I think, hold good in the advertising field, as in other fields of human effort. The value of an advertisement depends first upon the number of people it reaches; second, upon their willingness and comfort in reading it, and third, upon the ability of the readers to buy the goods advertised.

It is important for the advertiser to avoid duplicating his advertisement. Much money is wasted in that way. A man goes into a big city and advertises in half a dozen or more of the newspapers of that city. One man buys three or four newspapers and takes them all home; only one out of the three or four is read by the woman in the house.

The advertising done in the others is duplicated and wasted—money thrown away.

PICKS MR. BRYAN TO WIN

CONGRESSMAN SULZER THINKS
DEMOCRATS WILL CARRY
NEW YORK.

JUST BACK FROM PACIFIC COAST

Further Says Bryan Is Sure to Carry
Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado,
Utah, Idaho, Montana, Nevada and California.

New York, Aug. 27.—Congressman William Sulzer, of New York, who returned to this city yesterday from an extended campaign trip through the intermountain and Pacific coast states, in an interview last night said:

Bryan is very strong in the states west of the Mississippi river, and the tremendous vote he will poll there will be a great surprise to the country. I traveled all over the coast and intermountain states and must say I was greatly surprised to find how much stronger Bryan is this year than he has been before.

"I did not meet a democrat who was not going to vote for him, and I met a great many republicans who are openly supporting the democratic nominees. From what I saw and from what I heard I have no doubt that Mr. Bryan will carry a majority of the states west of the Mississippi river. He is sure to carry Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Nevada and California.

"The battle ground, however, is going to be in New York and the corn lands of the middle west. Every inch of the ground in those localities is going to be contested. The nomination of John W. Kern for vice president is very popular in Indiana.

"The nomination of former Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson for governor of Illinois puts the state in the doubtful column. The same can be said of Minnesota. Johnson, beyond any question, is the most popular man in Minnesota today, and there seems to be no doubt that he will carry the state again.

"I feel confident that Bryan will carry New York. The democrats of New York will do their duty and take advantage of this splendid opportunity to place the Empire state again in the democratic column."

NOTICE TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS

PROVISIONS OF COMPULSORY ATTENDANCE LAW.

1. Every child between 8 and 14 years old and between 14 and 16, when not regularly employed, must attend some day school at least half of the term each year.

2. No child can be excused on promise to attend; he must attend first half of term before being excused on that account.

3. Courts having jurisdiction (justice of the peace in rural districts and in cities having less than 50,000 population) may excuse children from attending school for following reasons: (1) parents can not supply proper clothing; (2) child is mentally or physically unable to attend; (3) no public school in two and a half miles of the home; (4) labor of child is necessary to support family; (5) child has completed the common school course.

4. No child between 8 and 14 can be employed in mine, factory, workshop or store unless excused for one of the five reasons, or has statement from teacher that he has already attended half of the term for that school year.

5. It is the duty of attendance officers and district clerks to notify parents and guardians when children fail to comply with the provisions of the law.

6. The penalty for non-attendance falls on parent or guardian, and it is a maximum fine, $25 or imprisonment for ten days, one or both.

7. For illegal employment of a child, the employer is subject to a fine of fifty dollars and costs.

8. Every school board shall publish this synopsis in newspaper of the district, or post it in at least five public places ten days before school opens each year.

A MENTAL MONSTROSITY

THIS IS SAID OF ONE OF HAIN'S
BROTHERS; THE OTHER A MADMAN.

SAY PETER WAS CRAZED BY GRIEF

Announcement That His Wife Had Accused Him of Unnatural
Practices Said to Have Dethroned Reason.

New York, Aug. 27.—When the Hains brothers are placed on trial for their lives the defense will contend, in the case of Captain P. C. Hains, that he was a madman for a week before the tragedy. It will be asserted that Mrs. Hains answered her husband's suit for divorce by offering to obtain a decree herself in South Dakota, providing she got the custody of the children and alimony.

When the offer was rejected counsel for Mrs. Hains stated that they would prefer charges of unnatural practices against Captain Hains. This was within a week of the shooting of William E. Annis and thereafter, the defense asserts, Captain Hains was mentally irresponsible.

This information comes from Dr. Frank T. Jenkins, an uncle of the accused men. He also says that T. Jenkins Hains suffers from insanity of a manic-depressive form, which has existed from childhood, and has been manifested at times by periods of depression and exaltation.

Dr. Jenkins is a practicing physician in this city. He is a son by the first wife of the late Admiral Jenkins, who was Farragut's chief of staff. He is therefore a half brother of Mrs. Hains, Sr., and an uncle of the two brothers accused of the murder of Annis.

Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n

St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A., Aug 21, 1908.

Mr. Peter Pehl,
Sedalia, Mo.

Dear Sir: After exhaustive research and experiment, we are happy to announce that we have succeeded in brewing the best absolutely non-intoxicating beverage that has ever been produced, and we are now ready to supply "Bevo," a new temperance drink, brewed of the choicest barley-malt, imported hops and water, and hence, an absolutely pure, wholesome, palatable, invigorating and cooling drink, which, while containing as much extract as regular beer, has less than 1/2 of 1 per cent alcohol by volume, and may therefore be freely partaken of by old and young, strong and feeble, with a relish, proving beneficial to the system through its Lupulin, a stomach tonic, and conducive to refreshing sleep, owing to its nutritive qualities.

Should there be a Fort or Soldiers' Home in your territory, "Bevo" should prove the ideal drink for the boys in blue and the old veterans, as by reason of the small percentage of alcohol it contains, it cannot come in conflict with the law, or in any way be objected to by the U. S. Government.

"Bevo" is put up in amber bottles, the size of which is now designated as "small," formerly "pints," and shipped in cases containing 4 dozen and barrels containing 10 dozen each. The bottles are sealed with Crown Seals, decorated with the A and Eagle trademark, and the labels affixed to same read as follows:

HEALTHFUL. SPARKLING. REFRESHING.

BEVO
A BEVERAGE

Contains Less Than 1/2 of 1 Per Cent Alcohol by Volume.

U. S. Government Permits its Sale
Without Revenue License.

Prepared by

ANHEUSER-BUSCH BREWING CO.
St. Louis, U. S. A.

Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30, 1906.

The purchaser will readily see that "Bevo" is guaranteed as to the percentage of its alcoholic contents and the Pure Food and Drugs Act and furthermore, that it is permitted by the U. S. government to be sold without a license. Therefore, it may be dispensed in all drug stores, soda fountains and restaurants as well as cafes and saloons.

FIGHT HIGHER CRITICISM

At Meeting of Synod of the Church of England.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 27.—A lively debate between the conservatives and radicals of the Church of England in Canada will likely be precipitated at the session of the general synod to be held here next month.

For some time there has been much opposition among the more orthodox churchmen to some of the advanced teachings of clergymen and college professors.

In order that the matter may be threshed out by the synod, the Rev. Dr. Langtry has introduced a motion attacking the "conclusions of what is known as the higher criticism."

The "higher critics" and "modernists" within the church will likely oppose the adoption of such a motion, and a verbal warfare may result.

CASE AFTER CASE.

Plenty More Like This in Sedalia.

Scores of Sedalia people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement?

W. A. Smith, painting contractor, of 409 West Fifth street, Sedalia, Mo., says: "I am only too glad to be in a position to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. My wife was a chronic sufferer from kidney ailments for over ten years, and during all that time we spent hundreds of dollars trying different medicines and treatments, but to little purpose. There was a constant bearing down pain across the small of her back and joints, which at times extended up into the shoulders and into the back of her neck. Spells of dizziness were frequent and there was also a fluttering of the heart and difficulty in breathing. The action of the kidneys was very irregular, the secretions being at times too frequent and then too scanty, and highly colored. Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to her notice and she procured them at the W. E. Bard Drug Co. The results obtained were far beyond her expectations. Her health has been better in every way since, and it is no wonder that she is glad to recommend your remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

AUGUSTA, GA., FLOODED

WATER TEN FEET DEEP IN THE UNION DEPOT AT THE STATE CAPITAL.

THE ENTIRE CITY IS INUNDATED

Wires Down, Trains Abandoned and Business Completely Paralyzed

—A Night of Darkness and Terror.

Augusta, Ga., Aug. 27.—Augusta was visited yesterday by one of the worst floods in its history. The Savannah river began rising Tuesday, continuing until a late hour last night. The water surged down until a depth of six or eight feet was reached in a certain district. So far as known, three persons were drowned.

Reports of the capsizing of boats received were not verified. Two fires were reported in the flooded district.

Lime stored in the warehouses caused explosions which destroyed the Nixon Wholesale Grocery company warehouses and the Nixon & Danforth cotton house.

The fires were spectacular, and people were compelled to stand by and watch the new feature of destruction.

It is not possible to give the final loss resulting from the flood. Every business house is submerged from four to nine feet, and many residences from three to six feet.

The Dispatches Last Night.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 27.—The most serious flood in twenty years swept down on Augusta and other cities in Georgia and the Carolinas yesterday, resulting in the reported death of twenty-two persons and a property loss of approximately over a million dollars, besides blocking traffic and cutting off communication by wire and telephone.

Reports received from Augusta late last afternoon stated that, following the break of the big dam at the head of the Augusta canal, practically every street is covered with water, and many of the stores have been abandoned. The river at that time had reached a height of 38 feet, and the water was 2 1/2 to 4 feet deep in Broad street.

At 2 o'clock last afternoon the Georgia railroad, which runs direct to Augusta, reported that wire communication had ceased, and that their last information was that no train had been able to get nearer than a mile to the city.

At 5 o'clock last afternoon Augusta was paralyzed by the flood and practically the entire city was inundated. The water was 7 feet deep in the Southern Bell telephone office, every business house was closed, all the telegraph offices shut down, the newspaper men had abandoned their offices, and the city was cut off from the world, the only possible communication being by means of telephone.

The big bridge across the Savannah went down last afternoon. The dam at the locks, seven miles above the city, collapsed, and the rush of water added to the flood that had already filled the city. After the breaking of the dam a number of small shacks and shanties were washed away, but no house of size had succumbed.

The city was in absolute darkness last night because of the drowning out of the fires of the electric light company.

The street cars quit running early yesterday from the same cause. All the big cotton factories and every other enterprise of any note are shut down.

SEE LOEWER'S NEW LINE OF FALL SUITINGS AND TROUSERS.

On the Manhattan side, in deference to the girl's low-spoken wish Maitland ran the machine up to Second avenue, turned north, and brought it to a stop by the curb, a little north of Thirty-fifth street.

"And now whither?" he inquired, hands somewhat impatiently ready upon the driving and steering gear.

The girl smiled faintly through her veil. "You have been most kind," she told him in a tired voice. "Thank you—from my heart, Mr. Anisty," and made a move as if to relieve him of his charge.

"Is that all?" he demanded, blankly. "Can I say more?"

"I—I am to go no further with you?" Sick with disappointment, he rose and dropped to the sidewalk—anticipating her affirmative answer.

"If you would please me," said the girl, "you won't insist."

"I don't," he returned, ruefully. "But are you quite sure that you're all right now?"

"Quite, thank you, dear Mr. Anisty!" With a pretty gesture of conquering impulse she swept her veil aside, and the warm rose-glow of the new-born day tinted her wan young cheeks with color. And her eyes were as stars, bright with a mist of emotion, brimming with gratitude—and something else. He could not say what; but one thing he knew, and that was that she was worn with excitement and fatigue, near to the point of breaking down.

"You're tired," he insisted, solicitous. "Can't you let me—?" "I am tired," she admitted, wistfully, voice subdued, yet rich and vibrant. "No, please. Please let me go. Don't ask me any questions—now."

"Only one," he made supplication. "I've done nothing—"

"Nothing but be more kind than I can say!"

"And you're not going to back out of our partnership?"

"Oh!" And now the color in her cheeks was warmer than that which the dawn had lent them. "No. . . . I shan't back out." And she smiled.

"And if I call a meeting of the board of management of Anisty and Wentworth, Limited, you will promise to attend?"

"Ye-es—"

"Will it be too early if I call one for to-day?"

"Why—"

"Say at two o'clock this afternoon, at Eugene's. You know the place?"

"I have lunched there—"

"Then you shall again to-day. You won't disappoint me?"

"I will be there. . . . I shall be glad to come. Now—please!"

"You've promised. Don't forget."

He stepped back and stood in a sort of dreamy daze, while, with one final wonderful smile at parting, the girl assumed control of the machine and swung it out from the curb. Maitland watched it forge slowly up the avenue and vanish round the Thirty-sixth street corner; then turned his face southward, sighing with weariness and discontent.

At Thirty-fourth street a policeman, lounging beneath the corrugated iron awning of a corner saloon, faced about with a low whistle, to stare after him. Maitland experienced a chill sense of criminal guilt; he was painfully conscious of those two shrewd eyes, boring gimlet-like into his back, overlooking no detail of the wreck of his evening clothes. Involuntarily he glanced down at his legs, and they moved mechanically beneath the edge of his overcoat like twin animated columns of mud and dust, openly advertising his misadventures. He felt in his soul that they shrieked aloud, that they would presently succeed in dining all the town awake, so that the startled populace would come to rest in the stenciled shadows of the Third avenue elevated structure. Its pilot was snoring lustily the sleep of the belated, on the box. With some difficulty he was awakened, and Maitland dodged into the musty, dusty body of the vehicle grateful to escape the unprejudiced stare of the guardian of the peace, who in another moment would have overtaken him and, doubtless, subjected him to embarrassing inquisition.

As the ancient four-wheeler rattled noisily over the cobbles, some of the shops were taking down their shutters, the surface cars were beginning to run with increasing frequency, and the sidewalks were becoming sparsely populated. Familiar as the sights were, they were yet somehow strangely unreal to the young man. In a night the face of the world had changed for him; its features loomed weirdly blurred and contorted through the mystical gray-gold atmosphere of the land of Romance, wherein he really lived and moved and had his being.

The blatant day was altogether preposterous; to-day was a dream, something nightmarish; last night he had been awake, last night for the first time in twenty-odd years of existence he had lived.

He slipped unthinkingly one hand into his coat pocket, seeking instinctively his cigarette case; and his fingers brushed the coarse-grained surface of a canvas bag. He jumped as if electrified. He had managed altogether to forget them, yet in his keeping were the jewels, Maitland heirlooms—the swag and booty, the loot and plunder of the night's adventure. And he smiled happily to think that his interest in them was 50 per cent. depreciated in 24 hours; now he owned only half.

Suddenly he sat up, with happy eyes and a glowing face. She had trusted him!

CHAPTER V.

Incognito.

At noon, precisely, Maitland stirred between the sheets for the first time since he had thrown himself into his bed—stirred, and, confused by whatever alarm had awakened him, yawned stuporously, and sat up, rubbing clenched fists in his eyes to clear them of sleep's cobwebs. Then he bent forward, clasping his knees, smiled largely, replaced the smile with a thoughtful frown, and in such wise contemplated the foot of the bed for several minutes—his first conscious impression, that he had something delightful to look forward to yielding to a vague recollection of a prolonged shrill tintinnabulation—as if the telephone bell in the front room had been ringing for some time.

But he waited in vain for a repetition of the sound, and eventually concluded that he had been mistaken; it had been an echo from his dreams, most likely. Besides, who should call him up? Not two people knew that he was in town; not even O'Hagan was aware that he had returned to his rooms that morning.

He gaped again, stretching wide his arms, sat up on the edge of the bed, and heard the clock strike 12.

Noon and . . . He had an engagement at two! He brightened at the memory and, jumping up, pressed an electric call button on the wall. By the time he had padded barefoot to the bathroom and turned on the cold-water tap, O'Hagan's knock summoned him to the hall door.

"Back again, O'Hagan; and in a desperate rush. I'll want you to shave me and send some telegrams, please. Must be off by 1:30. You may get out my gray-striped flannels"—here he paused, calculating his costume with careful discrimination—"and a black-striped negligee shirt; gray socks; russet low shoes; black and white check tie—broad wings. You know where to find them all?"

"Shure yiss, sor."

O'Hagan showed no evidence of surprise; the eccentricities of Mr. Maitland could not move him, who was inured to them through long association and observation. He moved away to execute his instructions, quietly efficient. By the time Maitland had finished splashing and gasping in the bathtub everything was ready for the ceremony of dressing.

In other words, 20 minutes later Maitland, bathed, shaved, but still in dressing gown and slippers, was seated at his desk, a cup of black coffee steaming at his elbow, a number of yellow telegraph blanks before him, a pen poised between his fingers.

It was in his mind to send a wire to Cressy, apologizing for his desertion of the night just gone, and announcing his intention to rejoin the party from which the motor trip to New York had been as planned but a temporary defection, in time for dinner that same evening. He nibbled the end of the penholder, selecting phrases, then looked up at the attentive O'Hagan.

"Bring me a New Haven time table, please," he began, "and—"

The door bell interrupted his words, clamoring shrilly.

"What the deuce?" he demanded. "Who can that be? Answer it, will you, O'Hagan?"

"We have No Time," said she. "Can You Drive—?"

the windows to stare in wonder as he passed by. And inwardly he groaned and quaked.

As for the policeman, after some reluctant hesitation, he overcame the inherent indisposition to exertion that affects his kind, and, swinging his stick, stalked after Maitland.

Happily (and with heartfelt thanksgiving) the young man chanced upon a somnolent and bedraggled hack, at

S.S.S. CURES ECZEMA, ACNE, TETTER ETC.

The skin is an index to the quality of the blood. Eczema, Acne, Tetters, pimples, rashes, eruptions, etc., show that some unhealthy humor or acid impurity is diseasing and corrupting the circulation, so that instead of supplying nourishment and strength to the fine, delicate tissues of the skin, it is continually pouring out its acid and unhealthy accumulations. External applications of salves, washes, lotions, etc., may relieve some of the itching and other discomfort caused by skin troubles, and for this reason should be used, but such treatment cannot reach the humor-laden blood, and therefore cannot cure. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only cure for skin diseases. S. S. S., a purely vegetable preparation, is the best and quickest remedy. It goes down into the circulation and neutralizes and removes the acids, impurities and humors, thoroughly purifies the circulation and permanently cures skin diseases of every kind. When S. S. S. has driven the humors and impurities from the blood, and cooled and cleansed the acid-heated circulation, every symptom passes away, the skin is again nourished with rich, healthful blood and the trouble cured, as the cause has been removed. Book on skin diseases and any medical advice free to all who write. THE SIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

SOCIALIST FELLOWSHIP

SOCIALIST MINISTERS OF FOUR STATES MEET AT ASBURY PARK.

MANY NOTED MEN IN ATTENDANCE

"Christian Facts That Make for Socialism" Will Be the Subject by Rev. O. C. Horsman, of Pedal Extremities.

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 27.—The socialist ministers of New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware and Connecticut will perfect state organizations at a meeting of the Christian Socialist fellowship commenced here today.

Among the speakers scheduled for this afternoon are the Rev. James L. Smiley, of Annapolis, and the Rev. Dr. Maurice Thomer, of New York.

The conference will adjourn over tomorrow, and on Saturday afternoon and evening the program will be:

"Christian Facts That Make for Socialism." Rev. Oliver C. Horsman, First Baptist church, Morristown, N. J.; "Great Poverty in the World of Plenty." Rev. J. C. Hogan, Jersey City, N. J.; "The Pulpit and Political Upheavals." John A. Wall, New York City; "What Socialism Hopes to Achieve." Rev. Henry Frank, New Thought church, New York.

Sunday afternoon Dr. Long will speak on "The Fellowship," and John Spargo, author of numerous socialist books, will tell "What Socialism Is and What It Is Not."

Mrs. J. G. Phelps Stokes (Rose Pastor Stokes) will conclude the conference by speaking on "Charity from a Socialist View."

Flag Yours When It Goes By

There's a procession of opportunities filing past you every day in The Democrat-Sentinel Want Columns—yours among them.

Your opportunity can't pick you out and then drop out of line and come to you.

But you can flag it—side track it—label it yours—and proceed to use it to the limit of its possibilities.

Don't say "O, well, other people might find something in The Democrat-Sentinel, but my case is different."

The Democrat-Sentinel Want Ads are for that special purpose of handling the cases that are different—of finding the people that are "different"—and better.

The sole object of all the pages of Want Ads in The Democrat-Sentinel is to bring together the people who have what you want to buy—and what you have to sell.
